A BIG REPUBLICAN SPLIT IS IN-EVITABLE.

Some of the Secrets of the Recent Republican Campaign Revealed From Inside Sources.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—There is going to be war, and a very hot war, in the Repub-lican camp, and at a very early date. Maj. as if John Bull had overstocked his market. McKinley has a policy of his own. It is a Western policy largely—Western and Southern. There are two things the Major s determined to rid himself of. The first is Eastern domination. The second is the suspicion that he, or his administration, or his party will be a catspaw to England. He believes that he can build up the Republican club to prevent it from turning Congress club to prevent it from turning Congress. g lease of life, but that to do this he has got to cut out from under the feet of the itable winning card-silver.

Early in the campaign, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan gave his ultimatum to Mr. Hanna-that the greenbacks should be retired. Up-on agreeing to this, money would be fur-nished without limit. Without this agreement Eastern funds were not to be had for campaign purposes. The campaign depend-ed upon an unlimited amount of boodle. Hanna was up a tree. After a good deal of a row McKinley agreed, but he had in the meantime seen his way, once safely in the White House, to flank the Eastern crowd and build up the Western end of the party strong enough to control. It was clear to him that there was an irreparable breach between the East and the South, and, once he was in the saddle, he would be master of the situation and could, with the Western Republicans behind him, give his ultimatum to the East. The dose he had taken at St. Louis was very bitter to him, and equally bitter to all Western Republi-can leaders, but with a defeat staring them

That the first requisite to better times is more money of some kind. That the present balance of trade, growing out of ons such as have not prevailed for on for one year, when new crops, which barring a world's failure, will be larger than ever, and, in consequence, low prices will break all records unless something can be done in the meantime to establish an increased supply of money.

The bargain to cancel the greenbacks is to be kept, but the attempt now being made in the East, to change the present coin bonds of the Government to gold bonds is to be resisted a la outrance! To supply the place of the greenbacks to be retired, an increase of National bank notes, on liberal lines, will be provided. Meantime the seignorage is to be coined and a policy of liberal purchases of silver—sufficiently lib-eral to absorb our own production of the white metal—is to be provided for and silver coined. The redemption of silver notes will be held to silver, and with the greenbacks out of the way the gold reserve can be turned in for general expenses and that amount of money let loose. No one will then have a paper dollar that can call for gold. The East and Lombard street will be shut out from coming here for gold to supply every foreign demand, and it will be impossible for London to make panics in our stock and produce market et will stock and produce markets at will.

In the meantime, with Russia, Austria and Germany absorbing all the gold produc-tion of the world, barring what comes to us as balance of trade for crops Europe, and England especially, must have, the money situation in England will be getting tighter and tighter. Russia has been quietly piling up gold. England has been losing gold, in spite of the vast increase in the world's gold production in reconstruction. apite of the vast increase in the world's gold production in recent years. Russia has also been buying cheap silver. She is in the market for fully five hundred million dollars more. The silwr she now wants is ostonsibly to replace her paper minor currency. For that she can use $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 worth at present prices. But Russia has Siberia to develop as her Trans-Siberian railroad progresses. She has the trade with Manchuris, which will absorb any amount the world can produce, and with it she can undo England's industrial and commercial supremacy, having already and commercial supremacy, having already destroyed British prestige and domination in Eastern China.

With a silver currency invading norther India, with the stamp of the User on it, that pountry can be worse unsettled, in its loyalty to England, than it could be by an avosion of Russian soldiers. The people of India would fear the troops and look to and equally bitter to all Western Republican leaders, but with a defeat staring them in the face, which would mean the disintegration of the party, they had to swellow the pill. But they bided their time.

Mr. Morgan's belief was, and is, that with the greenbacks out of the way, the Supreme Court can now be relied upon to reverse a former decision, if a case shall ever come upo, and declare power to make paper money a legal tender is only a war power. That, with allver out of the way, the English plan can be held in force.

On this the Whitelaw Reed dinner was made, to divide the loaves and fishes of the real banquet to come, among the Eastern crowd and, incidentally, a few Western doughfaces for appearance sake.

Mr. McKinley's plan is quite different. He knows that revenues are running behind and that they can only be brought up to a point to meet the deficiency in the revenues and that they can only be brought up to a point to meet the deficiency in the revenues and that they can only be brought up to a point to meet the deficiency in the revenues and point to meet the deficiency in the revenues by large imports, as things now stand, and Members of the Louisiana Sugar Exchange Quit Because a Telegram Was Sent McKinley.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 12.—It was nly a telegram, and a ten-word message at that, but it threatens the harmony of the Louisiana Sugar Exchange, the largest and stanchest organization of its kind in America. President of the Exchange J. C. Murphy wanted to send a message of congratu-lation to Maj. McKinley. He went before the Board of Directors and they said "No." President Murphy sent ten words of rejoicing anyway, and signed as officially from the Exchange. Then there was war. The Bryan men rose up in their wrath and raised a kick. Yesterday three of the Board of Directors resigned, Henry E. Eustis, one of the largest sugar men in the South, leading, and Messrs. Mashero and De Long following. The episode has disturbed the tranquility of the whole Exchange, and many of the members are hot.

and the Commissioners let it go at that. The precinct with the missing tally sheet is strongly Republican.

At the resumption of the official canvass Thursday the vote for the highest Democratic candidates for Judge and the lowest Republican candidates in the first twenty wards stood: Democrats—Edmunds, 36,506; Dillon, 36,158. Republicans—Zachritz, 42,045; Talty, 41,460. The number of rejected baliots in the twenty wards aggregated 4,680. By wards the rejected ballots were thus distributed;

In the Twenty-first Ward 811 ballots were rejected, which swelled the grand total for the twenty-one wards to 5,471.

As the count progresses and nears completion, it appears probable that no changes will be made in any of the legislative or Senatorial districts, or that any decided change will be made other than to make John A. Talty the low man on the Republican judicial ticket. But this may cut no figure, as the three Democratic candidates for the long term are likely to contest the election of the three Republicans.

In the Eighth Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward the judges and clerks, through an error, gave one Democratic elector and one Prohibitionist elector the full vote of the Republican ticket, 126 votes each.

The error could not be remedied and it made no difference anyway.

But the Prohibitionists may point with pride to the fact that in that precinct they have increased their normal vote over 100 ballots. The transposing of the returns will account for it.

Circuit Attorney-elect T. C. Eggers, who watched the canvass for a time Thursday, said that he had not promised to make John Gernez his assistant; that he didn't contemplate such a change and positively had made no promises.

The Twenty-second Ward canvass was completed at noon. At that time the relative standing of the four closest competing candidates for the Circuit Bench was: Edmunds 40,243; Dilon, 39,90; Zachritz, 44,73; Talty, 44,421.

Edmunds and Dillon began closing the gap as the silk-stocking wards were reached and drew closer and closer to Zachritz and was so large as to excite comment.

In the first seven precincts the rejected bailots aggregated 443.

For the First and Third Precincts of this ward the bailots rejected about equaled the vote given the Democratic ticket. In these two precincts the total vote cast was 554.

The rejected vote was 175 and the vote returned for the Democratic ticket was only 181.

The official canvass of the Twentieth

The rejected vote was 175 and the vote returned for the Democratic ticket was only 181.

As was the case in all other precincts, the fugges and clerks in these two gave no reasons for the rejection of so many ballots.

The count Thursday was watched by the Republican candidates with as careful a scrutiny as heretofore. Maj. Charles E. Pearce, Republican Congressman-elect from the Tweifth District, was also present and compared the returns from the Tweifth District with the returns made by the District with the returns made by the There were very few changes, and none important enough to excite any especial comment.

In the Tenth Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward the judges rejected 85 ballots and returned only 84 for the Democratic ticket.

When the Bisventh Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward was reached, it was discovered that the judges had lost one of the tally sheets. David Thomas, one of the Republican can judges, reported that it had been lost lost on the Circuit bench, as the respective per contests on other official canvass of the Twenty-discovery and Rejected Dallots used and Seiden P. The official canvass of the Twenty discovery and the yellow was careful it was careful. It was also present and compared the returns from the Twenty sight wards will be completed the ficial figures will be ready for publication. The official faurvass of the first wenty wards, while it has falled to bring out any marked changes from the published returns, has been important because it has laid the foundation for contest cases.

The claim of the Republican managers that Republican and the Democratic candidates would benefit more in a recount of rejected ballots than the Democratic candidates would benefit more in a recount of rejected ballots were cast by Democratic candidates that the judges had lost one of the tally ported by the fact that the rejected ballots are most numerous where the Republican shallots.

When the Enverture from the Twenty first wards will be completed. It is claimed by Democratic candidates can judges need compete sway Republican ballots.

While there may be contests on other offices than the seats on the Circuit bench, the official canvass has developed nothing important in this respect.

Several of the legislative districts are close, but the indications point to the confirmation of the election of all the Republican candidates. With fifteen Republican candidates. With fifteen Republican members in the lower house of the strongly Democratic General Assembly, St. Louis will be in a position to watch legislative plums go elsewhere.

Unless some marked changes are discovered in the remaining wards, Senator R. D. Lancaster will likely be the only Democrat in either house from the city of St. Louis.

The relative standing of the candidates for the judiciary remains practically as it was Wednesday. Talty will be the low man among Republicans and Zachritz and Spencer will be very close together.

Judge Edmunds will be the high man of the Democratic candidates, but unless the rejected ballots are counted, no changes will likely be made until contest proceedings have been instituted and fought out in the courts.

ply all Needs.

Many strange inquiries and requests come to the staff of underpaid physicians at the Dispensary but the one which came over the telephone Wednesday came near throwing the roung Esculapian who received it into a state of come.

The bell rang about an hour before lunch time and Dr. Thompson answered it. His deep-toned "Hello" was answered by a feminine voice.

"Is that you?" It asked.

The doctor answered that it was "me," which was substantially one same thing. "Well, send up two came of oysters for dinner, won't you, please," came over the wire in the most persuasive tones. "Hey? What's that?" shouted the dector. "There are no oysters here. If there were I would keep them. This is the Dispensary, and we don't deal in oysters." "Oh excuss me, I thought it was somebody else."

And a gurgie of laughter like the last gasp of an expiring bivaive came soughing over the wire.

waving their handkerchiefs at her. Mrs. Chase expressed her sympathy with the purposes of the convention.

Mrs. Dora Webb, State superintendent of the Purity Department of Ohlo, made an address on the "Regulation of Vice." Mrs. Webb said that there was one department of the W. C. T. U. in which work was not progressing as it should, and that is the crusade against immoral establishments. She declared that they were growing in numbers, and were spreading evil and disease. She expressed the belief that the Christian people would solve the problem ere long by destroying the evil. She rested her faith on the fact that it was God's work and must triumph.

Mrs. Webb said that for every well as the convention of the convention of her faith on the fact that it was God's work and must triumph.

Mrs. Webb said that for every fallen woman there are five fallen men. She deplored the fact that many boys of 15 and 16 were visiting immoral resorts. She said that these places have agents who watch the railroad stations and inveigis trangers into them. She gave an instance of a college which was visited by a femalemissary of as immoral resort. The result was that many students fell.

Mrs. Webb declared that the keepers of immoral resorts and the officers of the law desire to have vice regulated instead of suppressed. She denounced "regulation," as she declared it was based on the double standard of morality which recognized vice as a necessity for men. She spoke in detail of how the members of the weaker sex were treated under the regulation system, and declared it was solely a scheme to make vice healthy. She spoke of the trial of the regulation system in England and said it proved a failure and a cause of national dishonor.

She declared that it became obnoxious wherever it was tried and should be fought whenever an attempt was made to introduce it. She said that whenever it was legalized it promoted all kinds of sin.

Mrs. Webb read with many scornful comments a draft of a measure to regulate vice in New York City by legalizing "district inna."

She closed with an appeal to the delegates to combat the social evil with all their power.

Board. Members of the Federation were in Court at the time, including Dr. W. W. Boyd, its President, Messrs. R. M. Scruggs and Benjamin Eiseman, and Treasurer A. L. Berry of the Federation, who is the plaintiff in the case.

Messrs Alderson & McEntire closed their case for the plaintiff after showing by Contractors Higgins and Reicher, building the new schools to be heated by the Peck-Williamson Co., that extensive and costly alterations will be necessary in the schools before the proposed apparatus can be used. J. H. Laus, of the Front Rank Furnace Co., also tentified placing the cost to the Peck-Williamson Co., of the apparatus they are to furnish, at $10,068.

Lawyer Fisher, who as attorney for the furnace company has taken the case completely out of the hands of the board's attorneys, then called Mr. A. L. Berry to the stand. Judge Fisher started out by reflecting, in his questions, upon the Civic Federation, but was stopped by the court. He elicited the opposite of what he wanted from Mr. Berry, who testified positively that the Civic Federation was bearing the expenses of the suit and denied that the experts called had been paid anything for their services, save to reimburse them for their expenses.

School Director John Kissner was called by Judge Fisher, but his testimony was unimportant.

The election of officers will probably not come up until next week. The present General Master Workman, James R. Sovereign, and T. B. McGuire, a member of the Executive Board, are the leading candidates for the office of Grand Master Workman.

The articles contain a great number of new stories regarding General Grant.

Campaigning with Washington,

By DR. S. WEIR MITCHELL. Romance.

A NOVEL of the Revolution, "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker," purporting to be the autobiography of its hero, an officer on Washington's staff. Social life in Philadelphia at the time of the Revolution is most interestingly depicted, and the characters include Washington, Franklin, Lafayette, and others well known in history. It is safe to say that the readers of this great novel will obtain from it a clearer idea of the people who were foremost in Revolutionary days and of the social life of the times than can be had from Subscriptions $4.00 a year. All dealers receive any other single source. The work is not only historically accurate, but it is a most interesting story of love and war. THE BUSINESS METHODS OF ST. LOUIS.

The business men of St. Louis hardly appreciate the extent of the sur of their methods to those of other cities, but it is impossible to make even a casual comparative study without seeing it at once.

St. Louis is almost the only city in the country in which business is not being forced from a legitimate to a speculative basis. In New York and Chicago, the methods of the option broker and the stock gambler have so pervaded all classes of business men that trade is in great danger of becoming merely a gamble on the

In New York as in Chicago, the most desperate chances are being taken by men who seem to be doing a safe and conservative commercial business. In both cities it is becoming habitual with many business men to mortgage everything on which they can induce a mortgage to stick. Both cities are plastered with first, second and third mortgages, and merchants play their credit against the market as if they were "bucking" a fare bank for double or quits.

But St. Louis is still doing an honest business through the methods of honest distribution which make fair trade no robbery. Our business men have the confidence of their customers. The city stands on a record of fair dealing that has never been broken by the controlling influence of the gambling spirit. In St. Louis commercial gambling has been confined to a few bucket shop operators and option brokers. It has never dominated business and throughout the country, St. Louis business is another name for stability, for honesty, for fair dealing.

As long as crops are short abroad, the exported staples of the Valley States will save the country from a recurrence of the conditions of the last two years and the trade territory of St. Louis will have money to a much greater extent than usual. The opportunity is one our merchants will not fall to improve. The States of which St. Louis is the metropolis are growing very rapidly and St. Louis is bound to grow with them.

Nine-tenths of their business was done in silver certificates and "flat" paper. As long as the crop-shortage continues and gold comes in, they will recognize their obligation to pay gold to their creditors, but as soon as there is another again become repudiators and suspend gold payments, as they have done during the past four years.

Anybody who desires to see evidence that business is reviving will find it in the advertising columns of to-day's Post-Dispatch. The merchants of St. Louis have faith in the coming prosperity, and there can be no doubt that the people of St. Louis and the Southwest share in the belief. There is no occasion for further hoarding of money or for reluctance to spend it. The policies that were in issue in the last campaign have been settled for four years, and in that settlement business men find security for the investments they have contemplated. Let the wheels of industry move and the stores be thronged by people who will now satisfy their wants. All readers and friends of the Post-Dispatch are particularly requested to study the advertisements in to-

It is claimed that Bendigo is still high in fiesh, and with a little more work will be in shape to give the best of them a hard, bruising race.

been greatly scattered, owing to the desire of each road to get a long haul out of each one and reap the benefit of mileage. Times were dull and there was a constant effort to send cars as far as possible instead of holding them in the road's own territory. Now that business is picking up, there is a great scramble to get them back."

John G. Love, commercial agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, said:

"I find that all the local shippers are much more cheerful. Our business has picked up within the last few days, but I do not think there has yet been time for freight to get to the rallroads in any very great quantities. That will come later."

E. P. Bryan, general manager of the Terminal Association, which handles all business over the Eads and Merchants' bridges, said:

"The first increase in tonnage that we noticed was on Sunday. The first week of this month was very bad, but that was to be expected, inasmuch as it included the election. Then there was the time necessary for the subsiding of the consequent excitement just following. It is hardly fair to test the increase in business by our increase in tonnage just yet. As I say, we moticed an increase Tuesday, not only over the days just prior to it, but over the corresponding day of last year. This is a good sign certainly, and should it continue it would be a fair index of reviving prosperity. However, the railroad freight offices, through their solicitors and orders from merchants, would feel the change a little quicker than we do here."

The chief clerk of Wilmer C. Stith, general freight agent of the Missouri Pacific, said: "The improvement with us has not been marked, but there has been an improvement. We are getting our share of the business following the return of confidence. I can give you no figures as to the exact increase of tonnage inasmuch as no tables have yet been prepared."

The chief clerk of Samuel W. McChesney, superintendent of the Louisville & Nash-ville terminals, said: "Our business was good before the election and a slight inc

STATE'S WITNESS DENOUNCED. Accused Men Say He Got Money Under False Pretenses.

Dr. Mary Walter, Ralph Creese and J. M. femmett, who are under bonds to answer in Jemmett, who are under bonds to answer indictments for counterfeiting in the United States Court, have applied to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson for a warrant charging Charles F. Ulrich, alias Miller, with obtaining money under false pretenses. Ulrich is an ex-convict and ex-counterfeiter, who of late years has acted as a tool for the United States detectives. He gained the confidence of Dr. Walter Oreese and Jemmett and then denounced them to the officers as counterfeiters.

Ralph Creese told Mr. Johnson that in November, 1895, Ulrich told him money could be made by buring United States bonds in Europe below par and selling them in the United States at a premium. Creese spoke to Jemmett, who advanced $1,000 to Ulrich, through Creese, according to the story told Mr. Johnson. They stated that Ulrich did not invest or return the money.

Mr. Johnson said he desired to have the attorneys of Dr. Walter, Jemmett and Creese present the case.

The accused persons were accompanied by James Courtney, who says he worked with Ulrich when the latter was a professional counterfeiter. Courtney intends to testify in order to break down Ulrich's statements at the counterfeiting trial.

WORK ON THE NEW WHARF. It Will Withstand the Winter Assaults by Ice. Harbor Commissioner C. H. Stone re turned Wednesday evening from Chicago, where he attended the burial of his sister. Thursday morning he received the report of Capt. R. J. Whitledge and Civil Engineer R. J. Moulton, who went down to Caronde let on the wharfboat to observe the progres of the work on the new wharf.

They found it satisfactory in all respects, with good prospects that it will be finished in good time to withstand the assaults of the winter's floating ice.

This would not be the case if the original

This would not be the case if the original intention of depending upon the Work-house for the supply of rock had been adhered to. It was found when the work was got under way that the quantity of rock furnished by the institution was not more than half enough to keep the contractors busy. As delay was dangerous, the Board of Public Improvements authorized Commissioner Stone to have the contractors provide as much stone themselves as should be found necessary. Six or seven barge loads a day are now being received and the work goes forward without delay.

The cost of the improvement will be about $21,000, but when it is completed the usual schedule of wharfage charges will be assessed, which will bring in considerable revenue.

Publicity has blocked the scheme to sell the Board of Education Building. Members of the School Board are now busily engaged denying the scheme was ever thought of, although it is a fact that the plan was formulated and it was expected to put it through without attracting unfavorable attention until it was well under way. GROCER PIETZSCH INQUEST

Katie Wellman Sticks to Her Statement That She Saw O'Leary Fire the Fatal Shot.

Charles O'Leary still maintains that he did not murder Grocer Morris Peitzsch and Katie Wellman insists just as strenuously that he did. O'Leary has established an Coroner Wait began the inquest Wednesa gunshot wound in the abdomen was es-tablished Louis Hughes, the colored man who lives over Peitzsch's grocery, on Twelfth and Brooklyn streets, was called. He testified that at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday evening there was a disturbance in the grocery. He heard Pletssch call for help and then there were two pistol shots. When witness got downstairs Pletzsch was walking around. He told witness a man had tried to held him up and shot him. He saked witness to see that Katle sot her asked witness to see that Katle got her shoes and not to mix her up in the case. Katle Wellman was a frequent disitor at dress, a tan jacket and a black sallor hat, and wore the shoes that Pletzsch mended for her.

She told the story of the shooting withput mentioning the name of Charles O'Leary, confining herself strictly to a relation of the svents of Tuesday evening.

Coroner Walt did not ask her at once if the recognized the man who did the shooting. He questioned her as to her visits to Pletzsch and her relations with other men. She said she quit going to see Pletzsch two months ago, but could not or would not explain why.

She denied that she had any other lover. Members of her family had told her not to go to see Pletzsch, but no young man had objected. Then she admitted that she used to go with O'Leary, but he never mentioned Pletzsch to her.

Getting back to the murder, Katle said that the man who shot Pletzsch had his hat pulled over his eyes and his collar turned up, but as he entered he threw his head back and she saw his face plainly.

"Who was he?" asked the Coroner.

"O'Leary," replied the girl.

"Is he in this room?"

"Yes; there he is," and the girl pointed to O'Leary.

She saw no one with O'Leary the night of the murder.
Pletzsch old her that O'Leary had threat-sned him because she visited the grocery. She quit going to see Pietzsch because he said she had too many "fellows."
She was contradictory in her statements about why she ceased to visit the grocer, and seemed not to understand some of Coroner Wait's questions. Others she comprehended with marked acumen.

Julia Hughes, wife of Louis Hughes, testified to hearing the shots and looking out of the window. She saw two young men or boys run and also saw a young man walk rapidly north on Twelfth street. She cried out for some one to stop him, as his manner impressed her with the idea that he had shot Pietzsch. He was putting a pistol in his pocket and threatened her with ft. She took particular note of his appearance. He was clean-shaved, or possibly had a light mustache. His face was round and plump and noticeably white. She could not identify O'Leary as the man, but said his face was the same shape as that of the fellow she saw.

O'Leary needs a shave and his face is not as white as it probably was two days ago.

Maggie Hughes knew nothing except that there was a row in the grocery Tuesday night accompanied by loud talking and pistol shots. She agreed with her father and mother that Katie Wellman visited Pietzsch frequently until two or three months ago.

William Engler, a young man with a blue shirt and a blase air, was called by mistake, and as soon as it developed that he was con hand to prove an ailbi he was excused temporarily.

Mrs. Mary Lyons, mother of Charles O'Leary, testified that she west to Ryan's saloon, 1821 Franklin svenue, at $20 Tuesday night to tell her son Mrs. Corbett wanted his services as an expressman next day. Charley was in the saloon playing cards with several other young men.

This saloon is twelve blocks from the scene of the murder. As the time of the murder has been fixed at $15 the importance of Mrs. Lyons, statement is apparent.

Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, a neighbor of Mrs. Lyons, testified to seeing O'Leary in the saloon at $20 o'clock. She was not subpoenaed and came to testify at the suggestion of the saloonkeeper.

firm conviction of the Administration officials that a real crisis is approaching in Cuban affairs and that the only safe course

The Display of Floral Beauties Is Far Ahead of Anything in the City's History.

For three days Entertainment Hall will For three days Entertainment Hall will be the most beautiful and attractive spot in St. Louis, a haven for thousands who feel their hearts new opened under the softening influence of beautiful flowers.

The St. Louis Florists' Club, under whose auspices the show is being held, has spared no pains or expense to make it one of the brilliant features of the social season. That the enterprise will be supported by the best element of St. Louis society was evident in the brilliant gathering Wednesday night. A steady stream of beautifully gowned women and well-dressed men poured into the magnificently embellished hall.

poured into the magnificently embellished hall.

The stairs and entrances leading to the hall are a mass of palms and potted plants, the somber green forming a marked contrast to the riot of color within.

The seats have been floored over to afford space for the exhibits. Every inch of display space has been taken.

The entire interior, as well as the floor space, is a mass of vari-colored flowers.

The chrysanthemum is the dominacing feature. The shaggy flower is there in every waristy and every stage of development.

White and yellow specimens of all the varieties are displayed in great abundance, while the pink flowers, though less numerous, are shown in a diversity of forms, almost the entere central space is given up to the chrysanthemums. Ranged on three to use of the hall are the roses, carnations and cut flowers, which add the one touch of warmth needed as a complement to the cold beauty of the others.

Music is furnished by Guido Vogel's orchestra, which is hidden from view by a curtain of smillax, suspended from the proseculum arch.

The balcony railing is elaborately deccrated with cut roses, carnations and mignonettes.

The judges for the opening night were chosen by the exhibitors just before the show opened. They were:

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figa, promptly-removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere. Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely sed and gives most general satisfaction.

His Resolution to Investigate Charges of Corruption Against the Committee Was Defeated.

The meeting of the Democratic City Central Committee Wednesday night was a stormy one.

It resulted in the defeat of a resolution t let the State Committee say whether charges of corruption against city members wer rue or false, and in the "rolling" of Joh R. Butler, former Committeeman for the Nineteenth Ward, by a vote of 20 to 3. It also started a demand for a reorganization and "weeding out," which may result in the retirement of members from several see continued the demands for an investiga on; but the chances are decidedly against its being successful at this time.

Butler maintains that he is glad to be no longer associated with the committee as a present organized and run, and strongly in timates that very few honest men can be counted in the membership.

He also contends that he gave the committee a run for its money, and while i refused to adopt his resolution to have the State Committee investigate the charges of boodling and "holding out" of campaign assessments made against the City Committee, the seed has been sown which will result in time in the purification of the committee or a high old scandal.

This "solemn duty" it transpired was to move that John R. Butler be removed as member of the committee from the Nine-teenth Ward. The reason given for the motion to remove was that Butler had worked against and voted against John P. Collins, the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the Thirty-first Senatorial District. Butler did not deny the charge. He even averred that he would do the same thing again under similar circumstances.

As a substitute, however, for Burke's motion, Committeeman Butler presented

Whereas, It has been openly and notoriously charged, from various quarters, that some of the members of this committee, representing the committee, have been guilty.off extorting money from the various candidates for office, both before and after the various conventions which have lately been held in this city; and,

Whereas, None of the moneys so extorted or collected have found their way through the proper channels of this committee, but have, on the centrary, been missappropriated or converted to the individual uses and benefits of the individual or individuals collecting same; and,

Whereas, The good name and honor of our party, and more particularly this committee, is in danger owing to such charges, therefore be it

Resolved, That the chairman of this committee of five from among the members of the Democratic State Central Committee, the members of said committee to be representatives of districts outside the city of St. Louis, Mo., and to be chosen by the chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; said committee so chosen or selected to investigate all charges of the character aforesaid which may come before it; and that in order to better arrive at the truth in such matters said committee cause to be summoned before it every candidate for office whose name appeared upon the official ballot, or who was or had been an applicant before any convention of the Democratic party for any office which was voted for at the last regular election, and that this committee request all loyal and honest Democratic party for any office which was voted for at the last regular election, and that this committee request all loyal and honest Democratic party for any office which was voted for at the last regular election, and that this committee request all loyal and honest Democratic party for any office which was voted for at the last regular election of the party at heart to unite with it in ferreting out the party or parties guilty of such offenses. The vote on the resolution was 4 for and 19 against any investigation by the State Committee.

As Butler put it tersely Thursday, "the king pirates of the committee were not anxous to be investigated and the honest members of the committee were too few in number to force the matter through.

Immediately after the City Central Committee had declined to let the State Committee had estimated to let the State Committee investigate its doings, it proceeded to "roll" Butler by voting him out of the committee. By a vote of 20 to 3 Burke's motion to remove prevailed, Butler casting his vote for the proposition.

The three members of the committee who voted against his removal were Committeemen Dieckman, Tucker and Versen.

Then Committeeman Burke filed charges against Secretary Isaac Conran, declaring that he had furnished Committeeman Burtler with challenger's cards, and must be fired for that dereliction. Secretary Conran denied the allegation and defied the "alligation," demanding a committee to investigate. A committee of five-John J. Burke, Andrew Blong, Geo. Gonwallis, John Dolan and Wm. Tucker-will investigate and report at the next meeting.

Thursday forenoon ex-Committeeman John R. Butler was still firm in his statement that the charges against the committee contained in his rejected resolution could be fully sustained and brought out by an investigation before a sub-committee of the State Committee.

"I am not at liberty pet to state on what specific charges the resolution was based." There are a few honest members of the committee whose skirits are clean, but they will hardy be able to make any headway or to force an investigation."

If a proper contest can be made by the Democratic Committee, the State can be saved to Bryan and Democracy. To make this contest it is necessary for this committee to raise a fund, to be expended in the employment of counsel, the taking of proof and the general expenses of the contest. This committee is now without funds. In fact, the campaign in this State was made practically without money, and the orly means at its command for raising said fund is by popular subscription. In view of these facts, this committee now appeals to all Democrats interested in saving the State to Bryan and Democracy to send at once to the undersigned such amounts as they feel able to subscribe.

Catarrh Positively Cured A. J. P. GARESCHE LAID TO REST.

MOVING TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD MAN BY FR. HILL.

CITIZEN, PATRIOT, BENEFACTOR

Reference Made to the Deceased Law yer's Noble Action in Dark Reconstruction Days.

It was the often-expressed wish of the late Alexander J. P. Garesche that at his death all pomp and display be dispensed with when he was laid to rest. It was his desire that extreme simplicity should mark the obsequies.

Therefore the last rites over the remain of the well-known lawyer, which were per-formed at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at St. Francis Xavier's, were the least elaborate of the ceremonials of the Catholi

Over the flustrious dead in the Catholic faith the solemnization of high requiem mass is customary. That impressive service was dispensed with and in its place low mass was performed with only the accom-paniment of the dirge-like Gregorian chant mass was performed with only the accompaniment of the dirge-like Gregorian chant. To those who assembled in the spacious church to pay the last tribute to the dead lawyer, filling the auditorium to the last seat, the obsequies were none the less solemn for their simplicity. Almost every prominent member of the St. Louis bar was there. Members of the Judiciary came to evince their respect for the decessed. Prominent business men were in the assemblage and persons from the lower walks who had been befriended by the dead man.

Most significant of all was the presence of the orphan children, bright-faced little ones, to whom Mr. Garesche had given his talents gratuitously in the protection of their interests.

As the church filled and floral tributes were piled upon the altar rail, the deep tones of the bell above began and the telling continued as the casket containing the body was met by the celebrant and the other priests at the portal of the church, and was borne down the aisle to the bier, to the solumn notes of a direct.

It had been hoped that Archbishop J. J. Kain, between whom and the dead man the closest friendship had existed, would officiate at mass. The Archbishop's absence from the city prevented this, and the mass was celebrated by Fr. Henry C. Bronsgeest, pastor of St. Xavier's, the Gregorian chant being sung by Mr. Saier of the church choir.

was celebrated by Fr. Henry C. Bronsgeest, pastor of St. Xavier's, the Gregorian chant being sung by Mr. Baler of the church choir.

Within the sanctuary were a number of priests who had been close friends of the deceased. They were Fr. Walter Hill, the aged instructor at the St. Louis University; who was to pronounce the culosy; Mgr. Walsh of St. Bridget's Church, Fr. Fenion of the Church of the Visitation, Fr. Ziegler of St. Malachy's, Fr. Powers of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Fr. Coffey of St. John's, Fr. Brown of St. Alphonsus' Church, and Fr. Lawery of the Church of the Holy Name.

The eulogy pronounced by Fr. Hill was less a sermon than a funeral oration. The priest contrasted the end of a life well spent to that of a life wasted, declaring that the man whose body lay at rest before him had led a life of goodness and usfulness that had made him beloved of all who knew him. He was the friend and champion of the poor and oppressed, of the orphan and the widow, ever ready to give of his services or his means for the relief of the down-trodden.

The priest then reverted to the earlier career of the deceased. During the passions of the civil war, Fr. Hill said, there was in Missouri a code of iron laws, unjust and tyrannical. The deceased challenged the laws and fought them until finally his efforts were crowned with success in the United States Suprems Court. The result was the enjoyment of more or less religious liberty,

The priest followed this reference with a tribute to the virtues and high ability of Mr. Garesche and closed with a beautiful portrayal of the death of one whose life had been so nearly unblemished.

Few among Fr. Hill's hearers failed to recognize his reference to the work of Mr. Garesche during the civil war. Under the Drake Gonstitution, Fr. Cummings was imprisoned and threatened with dire punishment for violating the law by practicing his religion without having taken the oath of allegiance. Mr. Garesche fought the case until he succeeded in having the law deciared by the S

"To use the credit of the Government by selling bonds in order to relieve the money market when private enterprise could easily procure the necessary remedy is not only a very expensive but also a very dangerous method, as it cannot be done without dragging a simple business transaction into the arena of politics. It opens the door for the introduction of a multitude of plans likely to originate from motives of selfish interest and apt to be devised by untrained minds. Private responsibility should take the place of public irresponsibility in handling money matters.

Cardinal Satolli declares that the university at Washington had become the heart of these new ideas, where the most bold and risky theories were put forward. Fortunately, he says, the removal of Bishop Keane has cut short the evil at its root, but that the Bishop left behind dangerous disciples in the persons of numerous professors of the university, and the Cardinal advises the Pope to deprive them, in their turn, of their offices.

But the Cardinal shows himself much more severe in his arraignment of Archbishop Ireland. BURGLARS' TOOLS ARE CAPTURED

ONE OF THE MOST COMPLETE KITI THE OFFICERS HAVE SEEN.

WIRE INSTRUMENT A WONDER.

The Men Had Securely Dined and Slept in a Vacant Building at 1416

Capt. O'Malley's special officers in citiens' clothes are shadowing the vacant tore at 1416 Pine street, and when some professional burglars return there for a kit of tools they will be arrested. The kit, which was captured by Patrolman Kohrs, is one of the most complete ever taken by the St. Louis police, and is now taken by the St. Louis police, and is now in possession of Capt. O'Malley of the Central Police District.

Patrolman Kohrs was passing up the alley between Pine and Chestnut streets Wednesday evening when he saw that the reardout to the vacant store at 1415 Pine street was open.

That was not so very suspicious in itself, but the rear windows were covered from the inside with lithographic picture sheets of plays. The windows were so thoroughly covered that it was impossible to see into the vacant room. The front windows and doors were also covered with advertising paper, forming a complete and thorough blind from the street. The object of the advertising in the sliey was a mystery.

Kohrs entered the open door and found in one corner a lot of old gunny sacks made into a bed, and about it were the remaining scraps of several feasts.

Kohrs kicked the bed to one side and his foot struck something that ingled. He stooped and lifted a canvas sack containing the burglars' tools.

ing the burglars' tools.

He emptied the contents out on the floor, and what he saw would have been highly prized by any thief.

There were skeleton keys of all kinds. But there was one tool that few burglars have and all try to get. It is made of a fine steel wire and twisted into such a shape that either end is a skeleton key that few door locks will resist. That is said to be one of the finest burglar's tools ever made. Besides a key it can be outside. It can also be used to slip between the sashes of a window and throw off the catch. Besides that tool-there are others which have been constructed to open large looks on store doors. These are also made by some one who knew what a burglar most needed. They are all made neatly and show the handlwork of a finished mechanic.

Wharfage Charges in Carondelet. Boats which tie up in Carondelet will have to pay wharfage hereafter. No charges have been exacted of the boats by the city because of a dispute over the title to riparian property in Carondelet.

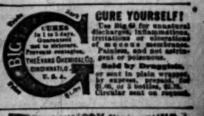

In order to take advantage of the law which permits wharfage charges where improvements have been made by the city, the wharfboat placed rings at the foot of each street in Carondelet Wednesday. Boats may tie up to the rings, but will pay the city for the privilege.

Mrs. James Taylor, who Kingsbridge, New York, on the 14th of December, 1894, said: "My age is 65 years. For the past two years I have had liver trouble and indigestion. I always employed a physician, which I did in this case, but obtained no beneficial results. I never had any faith in patent medicines, but having seen Ripans Tabules recommended very highly in the New York Herald, I concluded to give them a trial. After using them for a short time, I found they were just what my case demanded. I have never employed a physician since, which means $2 a call and $1 for medicine. One dollar's worth of Ripans Tabules lasts me a month, and I would not be without them if it were my last dollar. They are the only thing that ever gave me any permanent reliel. I take great pleasure in recommending them to any one similarly affected. (Signed), "MRS. J. TAYLOR." Ripane Tabules are sold by droggists or by mailf the price (50 cents a bos) is sent to The Ripana Chemical Company, No. 10 Sprace et., New York, Sample vial, 10 cents.

Mr. O'Reilly's reply was in the following language: "I hereby extend the time for the use of gas for illuminating purposes at the temporary City Hospital to Nov. 18, on which date you will please have the meters read in the presence of an inspector from this office, turn off the gas and remove the meters unless satisfactory arrangements are made with the Comptroller relative to the price to be paid for the gas hereafter."

Mr. O'Reilly said the difference between the price of gas for illuminating purposes and gas for heating purposes was slight, but it was a matter of some importance to him, for the reason that if the charge was made for illuminating purposes his department had to pay it, whereas if it was for fuel the City Hospital would have to pay it.

to the Water Department.

The City Hall letter carrier brought a letter to Water Commissioner Holman's office Thursday morning which had traveled far from its course and was still a long way from home. Its absence may be causing the sender trouble with the Cincinnati water company and anxiety over what has become of his money.

It was addressed "Water Department, City Hall, City, and was accompanied by a note from the Postmaster at Goldsboro, N. There was no postmark, but reasoning from the company in which he found it that it belonged in St. Louis, he sent it here. "That shows the folly of addressing a letter 'city,'" philosophized Chief Clerk Holland, as he clipped the end off of the envelope. "Oho, money in it."

It contained a check for $35, which was intended to liquidate the account standing against Dr. T. W. Graydon of Cincinnati, O., at the office of the water company in that city.

It may be that Mr. Randall, who is an irchitect, felt affronted at having his estimate ignored and that of Mr. MoMath, who is "only an engineer," acted upon.

drew a revolver, and, pointing it at the householder, commanded him to remain where he was, fixing the penalty of disobedience at instant death.

Then the robber backed slowly towards the door, having the gun pointing at Albers all the while. He unlocked the door from the inside and opened it. As he stood on the threshold into the kitchen he moved the table away with one hand, while with the other he kept the revolver leveled at Albers. Taking the key out of the lock on the inside and transferring it to the kitchen side of the lock, he pulled the door to with a slam, turned the lock and ran through the kitchen to the open window, out of that down into the yard and to the alley fence.

He whistied to the man in front and then all of them disappeared.

The police were notified and when the detectives called at the house they found the burgiar's shoes on the porch and in the yard near the porch they, found the message to Chief Desmond, telling that detective their identity.

Now Chief Desmond would like to become more intimately acquainted with the "famous three."

driving a sharp bargain with the Imperial people.

By the payment of spot cash he secured the garments for less than one-half the manufacturers' prices, and had them shipped straightway to St. Louis, where they will be offered at but a nominal profit. In other words, the price at which the patrons of the store will get them will still be less than one-half the manufacturers' cost.

It is impossible to describe the character of these garments in such a way as to give any adequate idea of them. Those who need winter outer garments will find it to their advantage to examine the stock and see if it is not as claimed by the management of the store.

Mr. B. B. Klein, who negotiated the deal, is unusually enthusiastic about it. He declares that it is the best and cheapest lot of cloaks ever brought to St. Louis.
